Location: Integrative Medical Center of New Mexico, Las Cruces, NM

Employment Type: Full-Time/Part-Time

Compensation: Competitive, based on training and experience

About Us:

The Andrew Weil Center for Integrative Medicine at the University of Arizona has described Integrative Medicine as “a healing-oriented medicine that takes account of the whole person (body, mind, and spirit), including all aspects of lifestyle. It emphasizes the therapeutic relationship, is informed by evidence, and makes use of all appropriate therapies, both conventional and alternative.” We are a patient-centered integrative medical practice founded by a pioneer in Integrative Medicine, Burton M. Berkson, M.D., Ph.D., who passed away in March 2024. We are committed to furthering Dr. Burt’s life mission of providing comprehensive, compassionate, patient-centered care that takes the aforementioned definition of Integrative Medicine to heart. Our goal is to partner with our patients on their journey to optimizing health by addressing root causes, promoting healing, and enhancing overall well-being.

Position Overview:

We are seeking a compassionate, diligent, self-motivated, and dedicated clinician to join our team. The ideal candidate will be a licensed Physician's Assistant (PA), Naturopathic Doctor (ND), or Nurse Practitioner (NP) with experience and comfort in conventional primary care and an interest in holistic health. A passionate enthusiasm for learning integrative approaches to health conditions is a must while further training, education, and experience in integrative medicine is preferred.

Key Responsibilities:

- Provide in-person patient-centered care to adolescent and adult patients, including consultations, diagnostics, and treatment planning.
- Develop and implement individualized health and wellness plans that incorporates evidence-guided conventional primary care medicine, nutrition, lifestyle modifications, supplements, and other integrative modalities.
- Collaborate with our multidisciplinary team to offer the highest standard of care.
- Educate and empower patients to take an active role in their health journey. Create healthcare plans in line with our patients’ personal philosophies.
- Maintain accurate and thorough patient records.
- Stay up to date with the latest research and best practices in integrative primary care medicine.

Qualifications:

- Current and unrestricted licensure as an MD, DO, PA, ND, or NP in New Mexico.
- Certification and experience in integrative or functional medicine preferred.
- Strong diagnostic and clinical skills, with a focus on patient education and empowerment.
- Exceptional interpersonal and communication skills.
- Commitment to holistic, patient-centered care.

Why Join Us?

- Work in an innovative office, away from the impersonal direction that corporate medicine often leads us to, with an almost-30-year history of providing integrative medicine to Las Cruces. We have a long waiting list of highly motivated patients, both locally, and from all over the world excited to partner with their clinician in achieving their optimal health. Our emphasis is on quality of time, care, and attention given to each patient, not simply the quantity of patients seen.
- Newly constructed building with mountain views; designed for expansion
- Collaborative, supportive team environment.

- Opportunity to practice integrative medicine in and make a meaningful impact on patients' lives.
- Competitive compensation and benefits package.
- Professional development opportunities, including compensation for training and conferences.
- We have participated in medical research in the recent past through National Institutes of Health and would like to further this facet of our practice.
